MODERN SLAVERY POLICY

Fourtrex is committed to conducting its business ethically and responsibly. We recognise that modern slavery is a serious issue, and we are committed to ensuring that our operations and supply chains are free from any form of slavery, forced labour or human trafficking.

Fourtrex is committed to treating workers, contractors, suppliers and other stakeholders fairly, ethically and with respect. We expect the same standard from organisations and individuals with whom we conduct business.

This policy applies to all employees, contractors, suppliers and business partners associated with Fourtrex.

Our Commitment:

Fourtrex is committed to:

- Conducting business ethically and in accordance with applicable laws and standards.
- Maintaining a workplace that is free from forced labour, human trafficking, servitude and other forms of modern slavery.
- Treating workers, contractors and other stakeholders fairly, respectfully and ethically.
- Working with suppliers, contractors and business partners who share our commitment to lawful and ethical employment practices.
- Raising concerns where modern slavery or unethical labour practices are suspected.
- Taking appropriate action when we identify potential modern slavery risks within our operations or business relationships.
- Continually reviewing our business practices to support ethical conduct and responsible supply chain management.

All workers, contractors and business partners are expected to support the commitments outlined in this policy and report any concerns regarding suspected modern slavery, forced labour or unethical employment practices.
